

The Best
Cough Drops
Are Drops of Ayer's
Cherry Pectoral.

Sixty years ago physicians first used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and ever since then it has been the standard cough remedy all over the world. Thousands of families, in Europe, Asia, Africa, and America, keep a bottle of it in the house ready for an emergency.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

controls the spasmodic efforts of coughing, relieves the congestion in the throat, quiets the inflammation in the bronchial tubes, and prevents the lungs from becoming involved. There are many substitutes and imitations. Be sure you get Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It contains no narcotic or poison of any kind. Put up in large and small bottles.

THE FIGHT BY ROUNDS; MANY BLOWS DESCRIBED

First Round.

Second Round.

Johnson came up chatting like a mope, but Jeff only smiled. "He wants to fight a little bit, Jim," yelled Corbett. "You bet I do, Mistah Corbett," retorted the champion. As Jeff held on, Johnson clouted him with a wicked right to the jaw. As the men separated from a clinch Jeff swung his right to the stomach, to which Johnson retaliated with two ripping left uppercuts to the jaw. The men closed together, Jeff leaning against the champion with the sheer weight of his shoulders. It was a case of strength against cleverness, with the Nubian having the better of it.

Third Round.

Both came up slowly. "Come in, Jim," shouted Johnson, saying which the champion hooked his left to the stomach with much force. Johnson then jabbed his left twice to the face and as they closed in breast to breast Johnson whipped a left uppercut to the jaw and neatly blocked the boiler maker's onslaughts. As the men circled about the ring Johnson kept up a constant cross fire of conversation. Johnson on points, had a good advantage, but there was not much power behind his stings.

Fourth Round.

Jeff missed a left swing, Johnson rushing away, leaving a stab to the face. Johnson taunted Jeffries constantly. "Don't rush, Jim; don't you hear what I'm telling you?" shouted Johnson, backing it up with a right uppercut to the jaw. Jeff got in a good right uppercut to the mouth and the blood started flowing from the colored man's lips. "First blood for Jeff," yelled the crowd. Johnson shot a hard left to the mouth and almost wrestled his man against the ropes. The "golden smile" had not faded from Johnson's face at this stage. Jeff forced the champion against the ropes and a half dozen short arm body punches found their mark in rapid succession. In response, Johnson shot a right to the jaw and the round ended. It was Jeff's round and the best one so far.

Fifth Round.

Jeff rushed in close and they wrestled for a spell. At close quarters Jeff shot two rights to the body, to which Johnson responded with a left uppercut, cutting Jeff's lips a bit. Johnson a moment later drove his right to the jaw and then followed it with two left uppercuts to the same place. Johnson lashed the white man with a straight left to the mouth and they eased up in a clinch. Suddenly Jeff sent the black man's head back a foot with a straight left to the mouth. No serious damage done to either. "I'm going to mix with him now," said Jeff to his seconds. Three lefts radiated from the champion's shoulder, catching Jeff on the face in each instance, and the blood seeped from Jeff's left cheekbone. Jeff waded in, but was met with a nasty left uppercut that closed his right eye tight. Johnson followed this with two similar punches.

Seventh Round.

Jeff came up with a ferocious frown and they closed in. A long sparring bee followed without a blow being struck. Johnson meanwhile carefully priming himself for an opening. With the men locked in an embrace Johnson jolted his man three times over the damaged right eye and followed this with a right uppercut to the jaw. Jeff stopped Johnson's bickerings with a straight right to the jaw. Johnson countered with left and right to Jeff's sore face.

Eighth Round.

Jeff rushed in and the black drove a left to the mouth and shortly after shot in two straight lefts to the face that carried considerable force behind them.

Ninth Round.

Johnson hooked another left to the jaw that carried with it a world of power. After Jeff had butted with his head Johnson lunged his left to the stomach and they went into a friendly clinch. Jeff crouched low and Johnson drove home a wicked left full tilt in the stomach. This round ended in Johnson's favor.

Tenth Round.

Not much life marked the coming to the center of the ring. Johnson shot two lefts to the head and followed it up with a short arm right to the eye.

A long clinch, mixed with wrestling followed. Jeff swung his right around the body. The men confined themselves mostly to infighting and short streaks of wrestling. Johnson always on the alert to land a punch. Johnson whipped two lefts to the jaw, and a right uppercut to the jaw made Jeff yell "Oh!" audibly. Johnson peppered away with his left and clearly outboxed his burly opponent.

Eleventh Round.

Johnson swung a terrific right, more of an uppercut, to the jaw, and followed this with a clean right uppercut to the jaw, and Jeff almost weakened. Johnson employed left and right uppercuts again and again to the jaw, and varied this with left and right swings to the jaw, and the blood spouted from Jeff's mouth in a stream. Jeff was a bad looking sight at this stage, but he suddenly electrified the crowd by making a round end rally, landing his right to the jaw and a hard left to the body that brought the crowd to its feet.

Twelfth Round.

Thirteenth Round.

The men fought without damage to a clinch and wrestled about the center of the ring. Johnson breaking it up with a volley of rights and lefts to the face and mouth. Jeff weakened, a right uppercut almost lifting him from the floor.

Fourteenth Round.

Jeff was met with a straight left as he got up, and a moment later another spiteful jab went to the mouth. Jeff's right eye was almost totally closed. Johnson sent in some rapid fire left jabs to the mouth and the big white shook his head. "I'm as clever as you are, Jim," shouted Johnson to Corbett.

Fifteenth Round.

When the men faced each other it was plain to all that Jeffries was in distress. Johnson waited for the big white man to come in and chopped his face to pieces. They came into a clinch after a feeble attempt by Jeff to land a left hand blow on the body, and as they broke away Johnson shot his left and right to the jaw in a flash. Jeffries staggered back against the ropes. Johnson dashed at him like a tiger. A rain of lefts and rights delivered at close quarters sent Jeffries reeling blindly. Another series of short, snappy punches, and the big white giant went down for the first time in his ring career. Jeffries looked around in a dazed way and got up at the count of nine. Jeff reeled about and tried to clinch, but Johnson eluded him and as the old champion swung around to the south side of the ring he jolted him twice on the jaw. Jeff sank to his knees, weak and tired, but got up again at the count of nine. It was then that Jeffries' friends began to call to Rickard to stop the fight. "Stop it! Stop it!" they shouted from all sides. "Don't let him be knocked out!"

Rickard gave no heed to these appeals. Jeff was helpless now, and as he staggered to a standing position the negro was waiting for him. A left, a right and another left, short, snappy, powerful blows, found their marks of Jeffries' chin and he went down for the third time. The time keeper raised and lowered his arms, telling off the seconds. He had reached the count of seven when some of Jeffries' seconds put foot inside the ropes and Rickard walked between the fallen man and the negro champion. Placing his hand on Johnson's shoulder, he declared him the winner. While Jeffries was not counted out, this was merely a technical evasion. It was evident that he could never have got up inside 10 seconds.

SAILORS VS. WASEDAS.

This afternoon at three thirty, the baseball team from the U. S. S. Cleveland and the Waseda players will meet in a game at Athletic park which will take on a championship aspect, as the sailor lads a few months ago defeated the Wasedas the best two out of three games on their own grounds.

Owing to the delay in sailing for the coast, it is quite possible that more games will be played between the two teams, today's game probably counting as the first of the series which will again be the best two out of three. Yesterday afternoon the sailor boys put in some hard work at practice in preparation for today's game. The Wasedas will have practically the same line up today as they had last Sunday.

MATCH IS OFF.

Jim Hoos and Jack Cordell will not be seen in action on Saturday night as announced yesterday, and at the present time it looks very doubtful if they will ever meet in Honolulu. Hoos's friends are confident that Jim would be able to make a fair showing against the mainland crack, but on account of his being a newcomer at the game they are not willing to let him meet a man who has always had a good record and has made himself popular with every one by his way of doing things.

Cordell is in hopes that nothing will happen to prevent his proposed match with Cornyn on July 30, but one thing is certain that it will not be held if McFadden has anything to do with it directly or indirectly, as the sporting public have witnessed the last fight under his management. The actions of McFadden last Saturday night will never be forgotten by the public who were treated to the worst decision ever given in a local ring.

RACE ON SUNDAY.

The postponed yacht race for the governor's cup will be raced for next Saturday, the course being around the island. The race which is for first class yachts will start about three o'clock from the bell buoy, the finish being at the same place after the yachts have completed the circuit of Oahu. Entries will close on Friday afternoon with any member of the regatta committee.

The following yachts will probably start: Gladys, Helene, Kamehameha, Charlotte C. and Hawaii I.
